

TIMES HERALD QUESTIONNAIRE – November 2018 Campaign

Hi, Katy,

I hope you're doing well. I'm writing about whether the three city council incumbents are seeking re-election to the council.

On-the-record:

1. Will you, are you, seeking re-election to the Vallejo City Council?

Yes, I am excited to say that I am in the early stages of starting my campaign.

2. If so, why?

The current council was very fortunate to inherit a city that has come through bankruptcy, and the city has made much progress during the four-plus years I have served on council. But the work isn't done.

We must focus on creating stronger neighborhoods and fund the services we all deserve. My council, community and financial experience will ensure we have both.

3. Do you have any areas, projects you are focusing on, should you be re-elected?

The city's choices should always take the community—the neighborhoods—into consideration. We have a superb new general plan, but we need a council that will follow it when decisions are made. Those decisions must include good businesses that will provide the most jobs and tax revenue, so that we have the services we deserve and the public dollars to support police and fire safety, seniors, families, working people, and jobs for our youth.

4. Do you have a campaign website people can visit?

www.KatyforCouncil.com is currently under construction and will be up soon. In the meantime, folks can come to my first campaign event, which will also be Vallejo's "Oxalis Festival," 739 York Street in Vallejo on March 18, from 11am to 4pm.

5. Is there an email address and/or phone number the Times-Herald can publish so residents can contact the campaign?

katyforcouncil@gmail.com

6. Any notable endorsements of your campaign, yet?

Congressman Mike Thompson, Mayor Bob Sampayan and Councilmember Robert McConnell.
